

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision for their stations to broadcast the anti-Kerry documentary a few days before the election is an abuse of free speech and an assault on equal airtime for major party candidates.

Sinclair's group is not charged for using the airways. Aren't they obligated by law to serve the communities they broadcast to fairly instead of supporting only one party's interest?

This is an obvious attempt to use a public media privilege for an ownership's private national agenda.

At least supporters of Kerry and Edwards should be allowed equal time.

Thank you,
